

New Head of Marketing UK at Carlson Wagonlit Travel
- Helen Cahill joins the CWT Senior Management Team -

UK, October 09 2006 – Carlson Wagonlit Travel (CWT) – the world’s second largest travel management company – today announced the appointment of Helen Cahill as Head of Marketing UK. Helen, who takes up her new role today (October 09, 2006) will report directly to Andrew Waller, Executive Vice President UK. She will be responsible for developing and overseeing CWT marketing programmes which strengthen the company’s overall profile and support customer relationships throughout the UK.

Helen brings a wealth of marketing experience within the travel industry over the past eight years. Most recently Helen was Marketing Manager UK for Etihad Airways, where over a two-year period she was responsible for a full range of marketing activities and was highly successful in planning and developing the brand in the UK market. Previously she also held management positions at The Savoy Group and Delta Airlines.

The appointment follows the departure from CWT of Simone Buckley at the end of September.

On announcing this appointment Executive Vice President UK, Andrew Waller, commented:

“We are delighted to welcome Helen to CWT at a time of such momentum for the business. Helen brings exactly the expertise which will allow us to continue to effectively and strategically communicate the value of our products and services to both existing and potential customers in the UK.”
